Main Work on Harding Memorial Finished

CONSTRUCTION OF INTERIOR IS UNDER WAY

Armistice Day Suggested as Date for Removing Bodies to Tomb

BRIEF RITES PLANNED

Landscaping Arrangements To Be Completed at Association Meet Tonight

Final work on the main structure of the Harding Memorial tomb was completed yesterday and work on the interior construction is now in progress. It was announced today by Hoke Donithen, then, member of the Harding Memorial Association executive committee.

As a result of the work having progressed to this point, it is probable that arrangements can be made within the next week for removal of the bodies of President Harding and his wife to their last resting place in the tomb, Mr. Donithen stated. The date can not be fixed until the contractors ascertain how much time will be required for work on the interior of the structure. This can be determined, it is believed, after excavations have been in progress several days.

Armistice Day, Nov. 11, has been suggested as the date for transfer of the bodies and it is likely that this program will be decided upon if sufficient progress is made with construction of the tomb, Mr. Donithen stated.

Brief ceremonies

While only brief ceremonies are planned in connection with the entombment, it is expected that many persons of prominence will be here. Mr. Donithen says that he has received letters from a large number of men and women prominent in public and private life who expect to attend the ceremony.

Should the event be set for Armistice Day, hundreds of visitors from all parts of the state, representing the Ohio Council of Republican Women, will be here to witness the ceremony.

This organization is to meet in Columbus on Nov. 11 and 12 and has scheduled a pilgrimage to the Harding tomb as the chief feature of the first day's program.

Completion of the main outer structure of the tomb includes the entire exterior, including all of the massive marble columns and the circular coping at the top. Only a small amount of work remains to be done on the steps to complete the outside construction.

Meeting tonight

It is expected that final arrangements for landscaping of the grounds will be made at a meeting of the memorial association executive committee to be held here tonight. Mr. Donithen stated. A. D. Taylor of Cleveland, landscape architect employed to plan the grounds, will be at the meeting. He presented his original plan and was requested to make a number of alterations. These changes have been made and it is expected that his final report will be approved tonight.

Construction of walks bordering the grounds and leading up to the tomb is well under way and other preliminary work is progressing rapidly.

Marble work at the tomb is being done by the Georgia Marble Co. under directions of the E. Elford Construction Co. of Columbus, which has the general contract.

Brig. Gen. D. E. Nolan Talks Here Tonight

Prominent Army Officer Scheduled To Address Kiwanians and Wives at Harding

Brig. Gen. Dennis E. Nolan, in charge of secret service work in the United States during the World War, will be the speaker at the dinner to be held by the Marion Kiwanis club at Hotel Harding tonight.

It will be an annual ladies night and wives of members will be guests. The program will also include readings by Mrs. Rodney B. Hume and vocal solos by Mrs. Koppie, of Galion.

SEARCH FOR WOMAN

Wife of Minister May Have Obtained Work, Is Belief

Washington, Oct. 27.—The second week of the discouraging search for Mrs. Ramsey Forbush of Canandaigua, N. Y., began today with the theory that she may have abandoned her former tactics and secured employment here.

On the occasion of her two former disappearances Mrs. Forbush concealed herself in the woods because she felt she "had to be alone."

It has been learned, however, that just before leaving for Washington her husband, Rev. Descomb Forbush, on their way to Florida, Mrs. Forbush told a close personal friend that she did not want to take the trip and "would get a job" if forced to leave her children.

14,000,000 U. S. WOMEN BOB HAIR

Washington, Oct. 27.—Approximately 14,000,000 women in the United States have bobbed their hair, according to Miss Gertrude Lane, a magazine editor, who spoke before the American Association of Advertising Agencies here.

If all that shorn hair were put on the scales, she estimated it would weigh 3,400 tons.

Miss Lane estimated that American women spend $1800,000,000 a year keeping their hair so beautiful, a sum equivalent to the total national debt of several small European countries.

LEGION TO ACT ON PURCHASE OF NEW HOME

Post Considers Buying Community House, S. High-st; Referendum Planned

A proposal to purchase the Community House on S. High-st. for use as a referendum vote of members of the Legion of the United States Post, No. 162, as the result of action taken at the post's semi-monthly meeting held last night.

Ballots are to be mailed to all members of the organization and if a majority vote is favorable it is probable that negotiations for the purchase will be started in the near future. Legion officers indicated today. It is expected that the ballots will be mailed early next week.

In addition to this action on the Legion home project, the post adopted a resolution requesting that schools of the city and county be closed on Armistice Day, which has been officially designated by the state legislature as a legal holiday.

The resolution was adopted in connection with the Legion's plans for celebration of Armistice Day, which includes a street parade in which school children are expected to participate. The Armistice Day committee, of which Oscar Gast is chairman, submitted a partial report of plans for the celebration.

To Forward Copies

Copies of the resolution are to be forwarded to city and county school authorities.

The meeting, attended by a large percentage of the post members, was also featured by reports of the Legion convention in Paris, given by Probate Turner to page 5.

CLAYTON E. STRONG IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Civil War Veteran and Erie Inspector Dies; Funeral Friday

Clayton E. Strong, 80, Civil War Veteran and Erie inspector, died at his home in the Probst-aps, E. Center-st., at 1:17 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Harding of the arteries was said to have caused his death. He had been ill four weeks.

Mr. Strong is well-known in Marion, particularly in railroad circles after about 50 years service with the Erie, until lately as inspector of the freight claim department. He was born in Knox County, Oct. 19, 1847 and was the son of Lewis and Susanna Coen Strong, the former originally from Maryland and the latter a native of Ohio.

He died in Harrison, who preceded him in death a number of years ago, and later to Charlotte Taylor, whose death occurred four years ago. Two children, by the first marriage, preceded him in death.

Mr. Strong was a member of Epworth M. E. Church, of the official board of that body, of the Warren Commandery, No. 23, Knights Templar, of Tripoli Temple, Mystic Shrine at Milwaukee, Wis., and of Old Erie, No. 3, Free and Accepted Masons at Warren. He was a brother-in-law of John J. Sullivan, judge of the Court of Appeals, Cleveland.

Funeral services are to be conducted at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at Epworth M. E. Church with Dr. B. J. George, pastor, in charge. Burial will be at Warren on the following Saturday.

FOUR MARION PERSONS HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. John H. Stoll, 78, Most Seriously Injured in Highway Accident

OCCURS NEAR MT. VERNON

John H. Stoll, Mrs. Howard Stoll and Mrs. T. R. Allen Other Victims

Four Marion residents were injured late yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding struck a mail-box post and overturned on the Fredericksburg rd., near Mt. Vernon.

Three of the accident victims, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Stoll, 78, Mrs. Howard Stoll, 220 Ellis-st., are under the care of physicians at Mt. Vernon Sanatorium Hospital. The fourth member of the party, Mrs. Tracy R. Allen, 320 Franklin-st., was brought to her home here last night. She received only slight injuries. It was reported today.

Seriously Injured

Mrs. John H. Stoll was the most seriously injured. She sustained a compound fracture of the right wrist, two fractured ribs and her head was badly cut and bruised. The full extent of her injuries could not be ascertained today. She is suffering severely from shock and it will be impossible to reduce the fractures in her wrist until tonight, physicians stated. Mrs. Stoll is 78 years of age.

Her husband's injuries consisted of body aches and bruises and Mrs. Howard R. Stoll is suffering from bruises and shock. Their condition is not regarded as serious.

On Way Home

The accident occurred while the four were on their way home from an automobile trip through Mansfield, Mt. Vernon and other points in that section of the state.

The automobile, a sedan owned by Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Stoll, was being driven by Mrs. Stoll. The car overturned when Mrs. Stoll swerved it to the side of the road to avoid a collision with another machine coming over the crest of an incline in the highway, about two miles northwest of Mt. Vernon.

A car parked along the road was the primary cause of the accident, it was stated. It obscured Mrs. Stoll's view so that she failed to sight the machine coming from the opposite direction until it was only a short distance away. To avoid the collision she turned her machine toward the outside and crashed into a mail-box stationed near the highway.

Badly Wrecked

The Stoll machine, badly wrecked, was taken to a Mt. Vernon garage for repairs.

A message telling of the accident, which occurred about 4:30 o'clock, was received here shortly afterward by relatives of the accident victims.

Howard R. Stoll and Tracy R. Allen left immediately for Mt. Vernon accompanied by Dr. William Young, who assisted physicians at the hospital in caring for the injured. Mrs. Allen accompanied them on their return to Marion late last night.

Mr. Zachman was presented with a large cake by the retail grocers of Youngstown at the banquet held Tuesday night, in appreciation of his efforts as president of the association.

They're In The Hospital Now!

ACHES, PAINS AND BRUISES CAUSE REST FOR STARS

Hollywood hospital lists in recent weeks might easily be mistaken for motion picture studio rosters. No fewer than eight film stars have undergone operations or suffered from minor ailments which necessitated hospital treatment. W. C. Fields suffered a dislocated vertebrae when a truck hit him while on location. Darryl Zanuck has parted with his appendix and John McCormack, producer and husband of Colleen Moore, has had his tonsils removed. Jack Holt was operated on for kidney trouble and minor injuries which he received in falling with his horse. Betty Blythe and Mario Prevost are convalescing from minor operations and Blanche Sweet had to return to the hospital a second time after undergoing a relapse following a minor operation. Adolphe Menjou is being treated for stomach trouble.

Survivors Relate Graphic Stories of Horror Aboard Sinking Ship After Blast

Women Refused To Be Quieted Despite Repeated Assurances; More Complete Accounts Expected To Be Told Today When Rescue Ships Reach Rio de Janeiro

Rio Janeiro, Oct. 27.—Capt. St. Anne Gough and many of his officers probably went down with their ship, the Princessa Matilde, when the vessel foundered off the coast of Brazil Tuesday night, according to an announcement made by the Navigazione Generale Italiana, the ship's owners, today.

The sinking of the Italian liner, Princessa Matilde, rushing in terror to the lifeboats or over the side into the waters of the South Atlantic, when the vessel began to sink, reached here today.

They were wireless to the International News Service by two survivors who were picked up by the Greek ship Dora.

They described graphically the horror which burst suddenly upon the passengers enjoying their evening meal the terror following explosion below the decks; the panicky fugitiveness of the women who would not be quieted by repeated assurances of the ship's safety.

When the boats were swung, the women and children were placed aboard first. Some men attempted to get aboard, but when they saw there was not enough room in the boats for all at the moment, they took refuge on the life rafts.

The work of swinging and lowering the boats was most difficult, owing to the lack of darkness of the night. The lifeboats of this ship were lowered upon the women.

Columbus, Oct. 27.—Basing its action upon a special opinion given the board by Attorney General Edward C. Turner, the board of film censorship of the state department of education, today denied its approval to the showing of the Dempsey-Tunney prize fight film.

Turner ruled that while there is no specific Ohio law prohibiting the showing of prize fight pictures, to permit their exhibition within the state would be a gross abuse of discretion, and contrary to the public policy.

EXAMINERS REPORT THAT RATES ARE UNREASONABLE

Washington, Oct. 27.—Examiners of the Interstate Commerce Commission today recommended that the rates for the carrying of mail by railroads be reduced. The report was made after a hearing on the subject of the rates for the carrying of mail by railroads, held in Washington, Oct. 25 and 26.

RECORD MADE IN CHRISTMAS SAVINGS HERE

Arrangements Made To Release Money To Depositors on Dec. 10

3,625 HAVE ACCOUNTS

Sales Rush Expected To Start When Checks Are Mailed

Christmas savings accounts in the city of Marion this year will reach the highest total ever recorded here, according to estimates obtained today from the local banks and one building and loan association which handle that class of savings deposits.

Last year's total, the largest up to that time, was $113,000 and it is estimated that the 1927 accounts will reach $133,000.

Arrangements are being made to distribute the fund to depositors on Dec. 10 so that the money may be used for Christmas purchases. Dec. 10 is the date on which the distribution has taken place in the past and people show that all but a small portion of the money starts to flow immediately thereafter into local stores handling holiday merchandise.

Some of the depositors use their checks to open permanent savings accounts but they represent only a small percentage of the total local bankers say. The Christmas fund distribution, records show, almost invariably starts the holiday sales rush at stores here, 2023 Depositors

The number of Christmas savings depositors is estimated this year at 3,625. This is about the same as last year, the increase in the amount of money on deposit being due to a larger average in size of the accounts.

When the Christmas savings plan started here about 10 years ago, a majority of the accounts were small, requiring weekly deposits averaging about 50 cents, bankers state. As the plan grew in popularity and depositors found that accounts could be easily maintained, larger weekly installments became the rule. The most popular accounts now are of the $1 and $2 weekly payment class.

Power Lapse

The percentage of depositors keeping up their payments throughout the year is larger than usual this year, bankers state. During the earlier years of the saving system's operation here, there was a tendency to start accounts and permit them to lapse after a few weeks. This practice is being steadily eliminated so that a large majority of the accounts are carried through to maturity.

Bankers state that this is unmistakable evidence of the educational value of the Christmas savings system in promoting habits of thrift.

In addition to the Christmas funds operated by the local banks and one building and loan association, a similar system is used at several banks in villages of the county. It is estimated that the distribution from these banks, which also is scheduled for Dec. 10, will reach the grand total for the county to more than $160,000.

ADDED POLICE FORCE CURBS CELEBRATION

Hallow'son Damage Is Reduced When Extra Patrolmen Appear

The appearance of nearly twice as many patrolmen as are usually found on duty at night, had a quieting effect on the Hallow'son celebration here last night. Chief of Police Thompson said this morning.

All of the patrolmen on both the day and night shifts were pressed into service for the Hallow'son celebration. The heavy force of patrolmen, which included several hundred on duty, kept the celebration in order, with very few disturbances.

Only a few calls were received by the police last night and they were of a minor nature. Extra precautions will be taken by the police department each night the remainder of the week to prevent any recurrence of the experience of Tuesday night, Chief of Police Thompson said this morning.

The chief also said that Hallow'son, which has been shown by the department in dealing with celebrators, has been a serious offense in the past.

Any boy caught committing a serious offense will be dealt with in the same manner as any other law violator, the chief said. He will be arrested and kept in the city jail until he can be released on bond or until he is released on parole.

The chief also said that Hallow'son, which has been shown by the department in dealing with celebrators, has been a serious offense in the past.

TAX MEASURES AID TREASURY

Legislation To Result in Huge Corporation, Insurance
Fee Increase

Columbus, Oct. 27.—Estimates that taxation measures enacted at the last session of the Ohio Legislature will result in an increase annually of approximately $1,700,000 in corporation franchise taxes and about $1,500,000 in insurance fees over the amounts paid into the state treasury last year, are contained in a joint statement submitted today to Gov. Vic Donahey by William L. Buser, state finance director, and Meritt Brannen, state budget commissioner. The report deals with the condition of the state's finances during the months of July, August and September, last.

These taxation measures boosted the corporation franchise tax and raised the rate on gross premiums of foreign insurance companies from 2 1/2 to 3 per cent.

Baker and Brannen told the governor that state general revenue fund receipts during the three months aggregated $10,025,532, of which amount $3,882,256.66 was received from domestic and foreign franchise taxes. There remained a balance of uncollected franchise taxes for this year amounting to $895,223.62, it was stated. Corporation franchise tax collections last year totaled $1,514,810.17, the governor was told.

"In most instances, the various state departments are keeping expenditures for personal service and maintenance within the proportionate amount of the available appropriations for the three-month period," Baker and Brannen said. "Of the appropriations for additional and betterments, only a small portion has been expended, due to the fact that all appropriations under this heading, in excess of $5,000, require approval of the state controlling board."

SCOUT HEAD GOES TO MEETING IN ST. LOUIS

Walter C. Brown To Attend
Third Annual Merit Badge
Exposition

Walter C. Brown, executive of the
day for St. Louis, where he will attend the third annual Scout Merit
Badge exposition held under auspices of the St. Louis Rotary club.

Mr. Brown is going to St. Louis as official representative of the Handling Area and also of the Marion Rotary Club, which is paying the expenses of his trip.

The merit badge program is an especially important feature of Boy Scout activities. It provides a system of vocational guidance giving each Scout an opportunity to become familiar with 76 trades, sciences, arts and professions under the direction of men who have achieved success in these fields.

Sponsored by Clubs
Rotary clubs throughout the country are sponsoring this feature of the Scout program. The first exposition was held in St. Louis three years ago and since that time other cities, recognizing the great value of the work, have arranged for similar annual events.

The Marion Rotary Club voted to send Mr. Brown to this year's exposition following a special invitation received from the club at St. Louis.

The exposition proper will be held
Friday, followed by a breakfast program
Saturday morning, when St. Louis Rotarians and professional Scout leaders will present practical demonstrations of the merit badge system. One of the objects of the demonstration will be to show that this program in Scout work can be nicely carried out in all cities, regardless of size.

STULTZ QUILTS GRAYSON PLANE

Old Orchard, Me., Oct. 27 — "Bill" Stultz, pilot of "The Dawn," Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson's amphibian transatlantic plane, will fly the ship in a test flight today but only because he feels that until he has officially covered his connections with the project flight to Copenhagen, it is his duty to handle the controls when the occasion arises.

the Grayson expedition yesterday after the publication of alleged remarks by Mrs. Grayson, which in effect said he had assumed command and landed the ship for land when it was off Sable Island in fog last Sunday. After a discussion of his resignation tonight with Mrs. Grayson, Stultz agreed to remain with the party temporarily it was said.

Not Yellow, He Says

Stultz, a pilot of long experience, declared, however, that the agreement to remain with the expedition temporarily did not nullify his resignation which is still in the hands of Mrs. Grayson. He was emphatic in his denial that he had turned the plane west because he was afraid to battle the fog on the Atlantic.

"I am not yellow," said Stultz, "but I have got a few ounces of the common sense necessary to fly."

When I used the ship west of Sable Island, I did so that I might gain altitude before trying to get over the fog. The assertions credited to Mrs. Grayson which say I turned the ship west against her orders are lies. She was not giving orders at that time. Furthermore why should I take orders at a time of emergency from one whose knowledge of aeronautics is limited. Unfortunately, at the time that I was banking the ship to get altitude one of the motors went bad. That was a tough break for me. To date I have been on the short end of the articles published about what occurred at sea but I offer my record as an aviator to the world for determination of whether I have got the stuff necessary for transatlantic flying."

The program for "The Dawn," today was crowded. At 6 a. m. Doc Kinkeade, Wright motor expert, jacked her up preparatory to testing the new motor. The engines were to undergo a four-hour running test. Mrs. Grayson and Stultz were to go up for a test flight late this afternoon to determine whether the plane is ready for another hop-off for Copenhagen when weather permits.

CANCER WAR IS MOST IMPORTANT, REPORT

Research Work To Find Cure Considered Outstanding Activity of Science

War against the ravages of cancer, which has come to be the most deadly and baffling of all human ailments, is designated as one of the most important activities of modern medical science in a report of the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association, received yesterday by Dr. N. Siffritt, Marion County health commissioner.

The meeting, held in Cincinnati last week, was attended by Dr. Siffritt and Dr. W. J. Weiser, city health commissioner. The report, issued by the secretary of the association, gives the interesting summary of subjects discussed by eminent scientists and other speakers.

Cancer, the report states, claims the lives of more than 100,000 persons in the United States annually. The association has outlined a nation-wide campaign to combat the malady. Plans for educating the public and informing the medical profession of the latest and most practical facts about cancer are to be worked out.

The chief purpose and the most effective method of warfare, it was pointed out, is to bring the patient and a skilled physician together in time to make a cure possible.

Menses, an ailment common to childhood, is not to be regarded as harmless, discussions at the convention revealed. Pointing out that the disease claims a heavy toll of lives annually, the association urged methods to prevent its spread.

vent its spread. Changes in the present methods of placarding and isolating measles cases were urged.

Some read epigrams and enjoy them; others are so contentious that they want to dispute every one they read.

The crew worked manfully to accommodate all the passengers and the stewards struggled to calm hysterical women and children. Only drinking water was placed in the boats, as the crew knew the coast was not far away.

Ship Comes to Aid

"Soon afterwards a light was seen on the horizon. It was the Formosa, later the British vessel, Rosetti, which picked up all those in life boats and the crews of the other ships took care of those floating on rafts or preservers.

For five hours the Mafalda remained afloat, and then, after another explosion, she sank. A higher wave came over her, and she disappeared below the surface.

The women and children were rescued first and most of them muttered prayers of thankfulness.

Other gruesome tales of shipwrecked passengers in Bahia by Antonio Ferreira, one of the first survivors of the Principessa Mafalda, to be handed there.

Ferreira declares that he personally saw a shark attack one man and that the waters about the sinking Italian liner were red with blood.

He says that he saw the blood of others who had been attacked by sharks.

The captain of the Mafalda, which brought survivors into Bahia today, also told a graphic tale of commingled courage and stark terror.

Saw Ship Go Down

In a report to the police the Musella commander stated that he saw Captain Guglielmi of the Principessa Mafalda standing on the bridge as his vessel went down and heard him cry out:

"Viva Italia! Viva Italia!"

"It was a horrible spectacle when we arrived on the scene," the captain of the Musella continued. "There were frantic men, women and children floating all about us. Many women and children seemed to have gone stark mad as they drifted about in the dark night, with fairly high waves tossing them about."

Believe OS Lost

Exact figures as to the dead and definite details concerning the cause of the disaster to the steamer were hoped for here today with the expected arrival of most of the rescue ships bearing survivors of the sunken liner.

The Mafalda had about 100 miles off the coast of Bahia, Brazil, Tuesday night while carrying about 7000 persons, including passengers and crew.

At latest official advice, it appeared all but 65 had been rescued by half a dozen vessels which sped to the scene immediately upon receipt of the doomed ship's S O S.

However, as with the exact cause of the Mafalda's foundering, there still remains some doubt as to actual number of those rescued and missing.

Details of the tragedy which have reached the International News Service by cables from survivors aboard the rescue ships, attribute the sinking to several explosions in the engine room apparently caused by water reaching the boilers through a hole resulting from a broken propeller shaft.

Officials of the Brazilian government have made preparations to cut life lines for survivors who may land. All will be taken care of by the government at the Immigration Hotel on Flores Island, inside the bay here.

Enroute to Buenos Aires

The many department will provide several jugs which will transport the victims from the rescue ships to the hotel quarters. The rescue ships will be escorted into the harbor by Brazilian gun boats.

The Principessa Mafalda was enroute from Genoa, Italy, to Buenos Aires and carried a large third cabin list of Italian emigrants bound for colonies in Brazil and Argentina.

At 2:30 a. m. yesterday, cable and wireless news started the world with accounts of the sinking of the vessel. Reports of tremendous loss of life flashed around the world and ships in the vicinity hurried to the spot.

The Mafalda had sent out the first distress signal shortly after 7 o'clock the previous night but word to the rescue ships was delayed due to the efforts of the Brazilian radio service to summon aid.

The first rescue ship to reach the scene was the French vessel Formosa, which arrived about 9 p. m. The stricken vessel was sinking and the passengers were in terror, taking to the boats and rafts and flinging themselves over the side.

Formosa at once began taking aboard many of the survivors and other ships, coming up as the hours passed, joined in the rescue task.

LIQUOR SEIZED BY OFFICER OFF DUTY

Patrolman Howard Andrews Arrests Two on Charges of Possession

Being off duty did not interfere in any way with the ability of Patrolman Howard Andrews, who, shortly before noon today, he arrested Eli Smith, 38, 131 Seavest and Harry Stevens, 32, Glendale, and captured a five-gallon can of alcohol.

Andrews, who is a night patrolman, was spending the day with relatives on the Kenton-pk a short distance from the city when he saw a touring car equipped with side curtains, come to a stop on the Kenton-pk near a clump of bushes.

His policeman's instinct, aroused Andrews watched the car. Presently two men alighted from the machine and one of them searched around under some bushes brought to light a five-gallon can which he carried to the road and deposited in the machine. Thinking it would be a good time to investigate, Andrews walked to the machine and removing the cork satisfied himself as to the contents of the can. The can and the two men were brought to police headquarters.

Judge J. B. McNeil and Louis Kull, who attended as representatives of the local Post.

The speakers landed the people of France not only for their hospitality in entertaining the Legion visitors but for the wonderful progress which has been made in removing traces and effects of the ravages of war in their country.

Contrast between the France of war times and the France of today is amazing, the two local Legion men said.

Reconstruction work done by that country is a source of pride and admiration to the two local Legion men.

Program Continued

During the war, Judge McNeil said, the French were generally referred to as "Frogs." He declared that that appellation and all other uncomplimentary references to the French people should be discarded as a result of the enthusiastic reception which they accorded the American Legion and their remarkable accomplishments in post-war rehabilitation.

Following the Post's business session a social program was enjoyed. "This part of the meeting was in charge of the entertainment committee headed by Charles Lehner. A game of 'Scoutie Polo' was a unique feature of the program.

Annual election of officers will be held at the next regular meeting, on Nov. 9. A definite report on the progress of the project is also expected at that time.

car. They then drove in Zillick's car to Bay View Park, near Toledo, and played golf and later returned to the garage, where Hland took his car and Zillick proceeded to his home.

Harold Wilkinson, Toledo, garage manager, Dr. Charles McNeil, Toledo, and James Baker, Toledo, golf course employee, were placed on the stand to substantiate parts of Zillick's testimony before the jury.

Holds to Story

Under a heavy fire of cross-questions from the prosecuting staff, Zillick failed to vary from his story. He was reticent about detailing his career in the court in reply to questions of the state but finally admitted serving terms in prison.

It was expected that summation of the case will not be undertaken before Friday's session of court. Several witnesses were expected to be called for this afternoon's session.

To date, Hland has been identified as a participant in the holdup by Cashier E. H. Beall and Assistant Cashier Curtis Tracht of the Galion Commercial Savings Bank and Miss Louis Feinlein of Galion, a customer of the bank at the time of the holdup.

In the construction of the defense, the following witnesses have been called in addition to those appearing at this morning's session: Mrs. H. L. Lockard, Toledo, garage bookkeeper; John Banks, Toledo, car washer; Attorney Larry Boren, Toledo.

Enroute to Buenos Aires

The many department will provide several jugs which will transport the victims from the rescue ships to the hotel quarters. The rescue ships will be escorted into the harbor by Brazilian gun boats.

The Principessa Mafalda was enroute from Genoa, Italy, to Buenos Aires and carried a large third cabin list of Italian emigrants bound for colonies in Brazil and Argentina.

At 2:30 a. m. yesterday, cable and wireless news started the world with accounts of the sinking of the vessel. Reports of tremendous loss of life flashed around the world and ships in the vicinity hurried to the spot.

The Mafalda had sent out the first distress signal shortly after 7 o'clock the previous night but word to the rescue ships was delayed due to the efforts of the Brazilian radio service to summon aid.

The first rescue ship to reach the scene was the French vessel Formosa, which arrived about 9 p. m. The stricken vessel was sinking and the passengers were in terror, taking to the boats and rafts and flinging themselves over the side.

Formosa at once began taking aboard many of the survivors and other ships, coming up as the hours passed, joined in the rescue task.

Shortly after midnight, according to latest information, the Principessa Mafalda, settling fast, experienced a mighty explosion and was hurled to the bottom, throwing up a huge black wave.

According to the local agency of the Navigazione Generale Italiana, owners of the Mafalda, most of those missing were members of the engine room crew, killed or trapped during the first explosion.

The Formosa remained on the scene until daylight and then proceeded to this port.

LABOR FAVORS SEWER ISSUE

Central Union Goes on Record Indorsing $800,000 Bond Measure

Organized labor in Marion went on record last night favoring the proposed $800,000 sewer bond issue to be voted upon at the November election, at the regular meeting of the Marion Central Labor Union. Members of the union were of the opinion, however, that an extensive program of education would be necessary before the voters of the city would realize the necessity of the sewer project, according to the report of Secretary H. K. Bigness.

Members of Marion Labor Union are planning to attend the Ohio Safety Congress to be held in Columbus Nov. 9 and 10. C. A. Jahn is the delegate to represent the Central Union.

New delegates were received from the Indianapolis Union at the meeting last night. C. H. Beck, president of the Indianapolis Union, reported progress in their efforts to organize workers on the Erie here.

Before the meeting adjourned copies of the proceedings of the Forty-Seventh Annual convention of the American Federation of Labor held in Los Angeles Oct. 27 to 31 were distributed.

The next meeting of the union will be held Nov. 19.

A supply of publicity pamphlets containing arguments for and against the two initiative and referendum proposals which are to be submitted to voters of the state on Nov. 8 has been received at the county auditor's office for distribution to the public. The pamphlets were sent here and to other county offices throughout Ohio by Secretary of State Brown.

County Auditor Thomas has placed the publicity folders on a table in the second floor lobby of the courthouse, where citizens may obtain copies. The two proposals discussed in the pamphlets are the Marshall bill, which is to be submitted to a referendum vote, and a bill proposed on an initiative petition to establish a state board of chiropractic examiners.

O. H. Boyd presided as hostmaster during a program of talks and story-telling.

FARM RELIEF PRIME ISSUE IN CONGRESS

Senate Insurgents Cite Agricultural Conditions in Booming Norris

Washington, Oct. 20.—The senate insurgent bloc believes the state of American agriculture constitutes a "national calamity" and that farm relief is the dominant issue facing congress, according to a statement issued today.

This belief, it was said, prompted the insurgents to launch a presidential drive for Senator George W. Norris, Republican of Nebraska, in order to project the issue into the next campaign of 1938.

A statement of the insurgent outlook toward agricultural conditions was issued by Senator Brookhart, Republican of Iowa, following a meeting of the insurgents. Later, it was indicated by Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, who likewise has indicated the candidacy of Norris.

The insurgents received about $9,000,000,000 for what they sell but the consumers pay over $30,000,000,000 for it," said Brookhart. "Since 1919 farm bankruptcies have increased by more than 1,000 percent while commercial bankruptcies remain about the same."

"These facts show a national calamity for agriculture without parallel in the history of the country. It is the highest duty of statehood of this time to determine the causes of this great discrimination against agriculture and to provide an efficient remedy. It is the duty of members of congress to solve the question."

STULTZ QUILTS GRAYSON PLANE

Will Pilot Ship on Test Flight Today, However, He Says

Old Orchard, Me., Oct. 27.—"Bill" Stultz, pilot of "The Dawn," Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson's amphibian transatlantic plane, will fly the ship in a test flight today but only because he feels that until he has officially severed his connections with the projected flight to Copenhagen, it is his duty to handle the controls when the tension arises.

Stultz tendered his resignation from the Grayson expedition yesterday after the publication of alleged remarks by Mrs. Grayson, which in effect said he had assumed command and headed the ship for land when it was off Sable Island in fog last Sunday. After a discussion of his resignation tonight with Mrs. Grayson, Stultz agreed to remain with the party temporarily it was said.

Not Yellow, He Says

Stultz, a pilot of long experience, declared, however, that the agreement to remain with the expedition temporarily did not nullify his resignation which is still in the hands of Mrs. Grayson. He was emphatic in his denial that he had turned the plane west because he was afraid to battle the fog on the Atlantic.

"I am not yellow," said Stultz, "but I have got a few ounces of the common sense necessary for flying."

Got "Bad Break"

"When I noted the ship west off Sable Island, I did so that I might gain altitude before trying to get over the fog. The assertions credited to Mrs. Grayson which say I turned the ship west against her orders are lies. She was not giving orders at that time. Furthermore why should I take orders at a time of emergency from one whose knowledge of aerodynamics is limited. Unfortunately, at the time that I was banking the ship to get altitude one of the motors went bad. That was a tough break for me. To date I have been on the short end of the articles published about what occurred at sea but I offer my record as an aviator to the world for determination of whether I have got the stuff necessary for transatlantic flying."

The program for "The Dawn" today was crowded. At 6 a. m. Doc Kin-kadee, Wright motor expert, jacked her up preparatory to testing the new motor. The engines were to undergo a four-hour running test. Mrs. Grayson and Stultz were to go up for a test flight late this afternoon to determine whether the plane is ready for another hop-off for Copenhagen when weather permits.

CANCER WAR IS MOST IMPORTANT, REPORT

Research Work To Find Cure Considered Outstanding Activity of Science

War against the ravages of cancer, which has come to be the most deadly and baffling of all human ailments, is designated as one of the most important activities of modern medical science in a report of the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association, received yesterday by Dr. N. Siffritt, Marion County health commissioner.

The meeting, held in Cincinnati last week, was attended by Dr. Siffritt and Dr. W. J. Weisler, city health commissioner. The report, issued by the secretary of the association, gives the interesting summary of subjects discussed by eminent scientists and other speakers.

Cancer, the report states, claims the lives of more than 100,000 persons in the United States annually. The association has outlined a nation-wide campaign to combat the malady. Plans for educating the public and informing the medical profession of the latest and most practical facts about cancer are to be worked out.

The chief purpose and the most effective method of warfare, it was pointed out, is to bring the patient and a skilled physician together in time to make a cure possible.

Measles, an ailment common to childhood, is not to be regarded as harmless, discussions at the convention revealed. Pointing out that the disease claims a heavy toll of lives annually, the association urged methods to prevent its spread. Changes in the present methods of placarding and isolating measles cases were urged.

Some read epigrams and enjoy them; others are so contentions that they want to dispute every one they read.

Daily Proverb—"Every one thinks himself without sin because he hath not that of others."

Undoubtedly the inventions of necessity are older than those of pleasure, as somebody has said, but when it comes to quantity production, it's worth noting, they aren't in the same class.

Dean Inge says that "Individuals sometimes rise above selfishness; always never. Herd morality is centuries behind individual morality." If the gloomy Dean is right, herd morality must be decidedly spotty at present.

President Max Mason, of the University of Chicago, says he proposes to make college a joy and not a job. At this distance, it looks as though he had been beaten to that goal by a goodly portion of the college youth of the land.

Dorland Smith, of La Porte, Indiana, is seeking the annulment of his marriage. He and Irene Stuart, of Portland, Oregon, were married under the names of two of their friends, whom they desired to embarrass, and it was the best joke ever till they discovered that marriage is a matter of persons and not of names, and that they were legally bound. When will people get over the fool idea, before marriage, that it's no joking matter?

Just to demonstrate how peaceful those dear, gentle Bolsheviks are, it may be pointed out that they are drilling the women folks over there to carry arms and fight in time of war.

Since seeing some of the fancy uniforms worn by our Legionnaires as they marched down the Champs d' Elysees, the French soldiers have become disconcerted with their uniforms of horizon blue and want to revert to the old dark blue jackets and red trousers. When you start something going it's hard to get it to stop. It's only fair, however, to state that the Legionnaires hadn't any grudge against the eyesight of the French people.

A New Railway Safety Record.

In recent months we have frequently come upon statements in type carrying the inference that travel by aeroplane is safer than travel on steam roads. As a matter of fact, we have noted positive statements in one or two cases to that effect, the record established by the airmen carrying our mails being cited in support of the contention.

However, we are of the opinion that the position of those champions of the safety of aeroplane travel will not bear scrutiny. The mail carriers have been very fortunate. It is true, but there are a great many more aviators than are engaged in the mail service, and the fatalities among those have been terrible of late. We do not refer in this connection, to the fatalities which have resulted from attempts at transoceanic flights, but wholly to those which have marked overland flights within our national boundaries. For weeks past, we have read of plane accidents with fatal results almost daily, by amateur fliers, by stunt fliers and by the fliers of our army and navy.

On the other hand, the American Railway association has just made public figures showing that a new record for freedom from fatalities was made during the first half of the present year, during which but two passengers carried on trains were killed in train accidents. The marked improvement which has been accomplished through the use of steel cars, better mechanical facilities and research looking to improvement in steel rails and car wheels and axles, to say nothing of the intensive safety campaigns which have been waged by the railroads, is made evident when it is stated that the record of fatalities shows twenty-two for the first six months of the year in 1926, fifty-two during the same period of 1925 and twenty-three for the first half of 1924.

The record in the matter of passengers injured for the first six months of the present year is not one of improvement, 776 passengers having been injured against 656 in the first half of 1926 and 753 in the same period in 1925.

But these comparisons by no means show the relative safety of railroad and aeroplane travel, for thousands ride upon the steam trains where scores use aeroplanes. When the number of passengers carried is taken into consideration, the ratio for safety will probably reach a thousand to one in favor of railroad travel.

It may be that the record for the first half of the present year is an exceptional one, but when the average fatalities for the six-month period of the four years is but twenty-five it must be admitted that the safety record, so far as the danger of death is concerned, is simply marvelous. That the railroads of the country have been able to carry millions of passengers annually for six-month periods of four years with but ninety-nine deaths of passengers resulting from train accidents is almost incredible.

The only conclusion possible in the face of such figures is that there is far too much loose and careless talk about the danger of railroad travel.

The Odds Against the Senator.

Let us cut out the frills of phraseology which usually mark references to the doings, statements or possible intentions of the president, and speak plainly.

When Mr. Coolidge's present term of service comes to an end, March 4, 1931, he will have served five years and seven months in the presidency. His administration, if nothing untoward meanwhile happens, will have been a most creditable one. He would have nothing to gain in the way of honor should he succeed himself unless it be the record of surpassing all other presidents in years of service. It might be that, during the progress of another term, some act or word of his, or some governmental policy for which he would be held responsible, would impair the wonderful popularity which he now enjoys.

Again, there is no position held by mortal man which carries the strain upon mind and body the president of the United States is forced to endure. The burden of the presidency is far too mighty for any one man to bear. Thus far he has been able to bear it, and he will probably carry on safely to the end of his term. But would it be wisdom for him to attempt to carry on for four years more? Mr. Coolidge can quit the White House in 1929 after having enjoyed the highest official honor at the gift of a people. By so doing he can lay aside the burden the office carries and enjoy life free from the importunities of the politicians and the restraints which surround the presidency, restraints which take from the chief executive much which goes to make up the sum total of the joy of living.

Up to the time of his succession to the presidency a man of very modest means, Mr. Coolidge can give over the reins of government and retire in very comfortable circumstances, such circumstances, probably, as he never so much as dreamed of attaining. He has not been extravagant. It is estimated that, leaving the White House in 1929, he will have saved a quarter of a million dollars of his salary. In addition to this, he has inherited the quite considerable estate of his father. Thus he would be able to return to private pursuits splendidly equipped mentally, physically and financially, to enjoy life to the full.

Mr. Coolidge has said that he does not choose to be a candidate in 1928. Our own Senator Fess insists that it is not a matter of the Coolidge choice, but rather a matter of the party need; that the demand that he run will be so strong that he will be forced to forego his personal inclination, sacrificing it to the party's good.

Senator Fess, despite his verbal chastisement by the president, reiterates his statement that the president will be forced to run regardless of his disinclination. Mr. Coolidge has upon several occasions since his announcement that he does not choose to run made plain that his oft-quoted statement was his way of expressing his determination not to run. Thus his reasoning, his inclination and his determination alike are in opposition to such a candidacy. Should all these be overcome it will be only because he sacrifices himself for his party. As a betting proposition, it looks like a hundred-to-one shot with the senator on the wrong end of it, that the president's "I do not choose" will stand.

In the light of their divorce court admissions that marriage interferes with their careers, it's simply amazing how much and how varied interference some of the movie actresses are willing to stand.

Reeling that a woman has begun a $50,000 damage suit against a plastic surgeon for the damage he did to her face, the Cleveland Plain Dealer asks: "If her face was worth that much, why did she let him monkey with it?" The question possibly may be answered by citing cases where old plugs used to become favorite family driving horses of exceptional value coincident with their killing as a result of being hit by passing trains.

The Wall Street Journal lists among the missing the girl who used to sing while helping mother wash the dishes. "Put, put!" She simply drove down to the beauty parlor to get a bob, a mud massage and a manicure before starting for the golf course.

The Sunday cabarets started over in England as a means of keeping young folks off the streets have run into a snag. If churches run cabarets, the British authorities hold, they must license the same as other cabarets, and any church, chapel or hall, having once been licensed, is subject to rating for taxation. The English aren't so slow. They have pointed the way by which pastors inclined to make vaudeville houses out of pieces of worship may be cured.

An Englishman is said to have been left $150,000 by a relative who enjoyed the way he performed on a corset, which we feel free to say strikes us as another of those exceptions which go to break the rule.

Poems That Live.

PARABLE.

There were two angels
Walking upon the road of life.
One was a great angel,
And one was a small angel
Who was both envious and proud.And she looked at the great one
Who walked above her
And she saw that his brightness
Was of an eternal shining.
And she plucked at his great wings
And pulled down feathers
To be like her own.
For they were dull and pitiful.And she cried to those Who gave of their hearts' gifts
To the great angel.
"Praise not his brightness
Lest it become tarnished,
Look rather upon me,
I, too, have wings.
Shall I not share his glory?"And the great angel heard
And yearned above her
With a heart of pity and compassion.
And his shining was the brighter
For his tears.But a sudden dimness
Was fallen upon the wings
Of the small angel.
And all who looked upon her said,
"Is this one, indeed, any angel at all?"

ANOTHER GRIDIRON SEASON OPENS AUSPICIOUSLY

Upholds an Epic of Today.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There came to me the other day the finest letter I ever had. It was an anonymous letter, signed "A Mother. I have no idea who wrote it, but it is the most touching thing I ever read."

Some time ago I wrote an article about rocking the cradle, paying a tribute to mothers. I spoke about the pioneer women and their hardships. My correspondent quoted this and said:

"Yes, they certainly went through terrible experiences and they were wonderful women. Yet I feel there are mothers today going through experiences almost as trying."
This noble woman suggested that she herself may be having trials quite as great. "I am the mother of nine dear children, all living, the oldest nineteen and the youngest two years of age. My husband was just a poor working man and when my baby was just six months old, he died."

She speaks of the past. "I couldn't and wouldn't begin to tell of the struggle and hardships that we went through during the twenty years of married life. But through it all I have tried not to hard to be as near a perfect mother as I possibly could be." Wonderful woman!

"Three of my oldest children are working now," she concludes, "and I do plain sewing. We are trying to get the home neat together, and we know that God is watching over us."
Think of a woman like that, with all her tribulations, taking time to write me that her "heart glowed" over the story of the pioneer woman! Why, my friends, all mothers are pioneer women. Isn't it so?

Child-bearing and child-rearing, home-making, with all the sacrifices of motherhood and wifehood, are just as exciting, just as exciting, just as soul uplifting as in the roughest and cruelest days of pioneer life. I never thought of it in just that way before, but I can see that it is true.

How true it is that because he could not be everywhere God made mothers. The mother takes the place of God and the angels. What would life be if every mother died when the baby was born?

If there is one duty resting upon society which may be said to be greater than any other, it is the duty to guard the life and health of the mothers. The trouble is the mothers won't let anybody lighten their burdens. They glory in hard work, responsibility and lost sleep.

But we must insist that these burdens and obligations be shared with us! It isn't fair that mother should make all the sacrifices, take the neck of the children and "only a little" of the best dish in the menu!

Let's begin today to make mother's work a little easier. In the most tactful way possible let's take over some of her self imposed duties. To make a mother smile is to make the angels sing!

Thank you, dear anonymous lady, for the kind words you sent me out of your own burdensome but happy life!

Editorial Comment.

RECEIVERS FOR NATIONS.

Seymour Gilbert, an American, the agent general for reparations in Germany, is reported to have warned the German government against raising the salaries of its employees. In the face of the warning the German finance minister has approved the recommendations for salary increases of seven per cent, a total increase in the German budget, it is estimated, of $200,000,000. Mr. Gilbert holds office by virtue of the Dawes plan, to which Germany agreed.

Germany's apparent disregard of Mr. Gilbert's warning will be hailed in some quarters as evidence of bad faith. Such a charge is at least premature, so long as Germany has not defaulted on any of the scheduled payments. More than that, a charge of bad faith in this instance is in itself an evidence of political naivete. It was hardly to be expected that a nation of Germany's position in the world would continue indefinitely to accept dictation on matters of domestic concern from a foreigner representing foreigners. No German government could live which made such a surrender of initiative, and no government, we believe, could live in any other democratic country under similar circumstances.

National pride would vote it out of existence at the first opportunity and take a chance on the consequences. The foreign regulator of the budget is an ingenious device for establishing credit, and it is likely to succeed as long as the government and people being regulated are profiting from the arrangement. The mere fact that an American, an Englishman or a Swiss is given the power to veto appropriations is, however, no assurance that the power will not be overridden at an opportune moment. Americans invited to lend money to a foreign government on the assurance that the borrower's business are to be regulated by a representative of the lenders will accept the guarantee with considerable reserve. Political expediency sheltered behind national pride can speedily reduce the value of that guarantee to the vanishing point.

MARSEILLAISE IN BERLIN.
Marek Doret, a French aviator, has captured Berlin. An international contest between Doret and the German ace Gerhard Plesler was staged at the German metropolis. It included all kinds of aerial acrobatics and daredevil stunts. Three judges, one Dutch, one Swiss and one Czechoslovakian, voted unanimously in favor of the Frenchman, and in this verdict the German spectators found no injustice. The French tri-color was run up the mast of the great Tempelhof aerodrome and the German hand struck up the Marseillaise. It was the first time the Marseillaise had been played in Berlin since the beginning of the war.

This, we might say, is an encouraging substantial indication that war hatreds are being forgotten. Doubtless the German unrepentant patriots will gush their tears at these honors officially paid to a Frenchman, a Frenchman for even going to Berlin. The fact remains that the ordinary everyday human being, whether Teutonic or Gallic, finds it difficult to make the business of hating a permanent occupation.

Scarcely had Doret's victory been announced than Herr Udet, another famous German aviator, challenged Doret, and the contest will be held at Le Bourget, the Paris airport. It is not to be doubted that the French will be as generous to Udet as the Germans were to Doret.

It is a little early to talk of "hands across the Rhine." The war has not been forgotten, and will not be for generations. But the fact that France and Germany are engaging in friendly combats is sufficient indication that the professional hate-mongers will soon get their occupation gone. Manifestations of popular amity are really more significant than the friendly diplomatic agreements of statesmen like Stresemann and Briand.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Soon you will look on a motion picture screen and see your own heart pumping blood. The X-ray motion picture is one of the new and remarkable achievements of science. Will that vaster triumph some day come—when we can catch the thoughts and emotions that center in the brain and throw them on the screen under the pitiless light of analysis? What a sad and humiliating day it would be for some of us if our real motives were to come under the white light of a self-revealing camera!

If men and women only realized that anger is poison and indulgence in it breaks them down, they would be more careful to control their tempers. Anger not only promotes rash and unjust acts, anger not only brings on later humiliation, but it has such a powerful physical effect that it takes the "punch" out of a healthy human being. George Elyton, one of the judges in the Tunney-Remsey fight, says that Dempsey brought on his own defeat largely because of his inability to control his temper. His anger poisoned him and broke him down.

His business is crowding out little business. The United States is in the first stages of a new economic era in which falling prices in a period of prosperity are forcing the smaller and less efficient firms out of business, leaving big firms stronger than before. In the future there will be more employees and fewer proprietors. For most business men there will be less risk, less worry, less responsibility and steadier work in middle and subordinate jobs.

These ideas, which strike one as both interesting and sound, come from Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland banker. It is not bad news. If small business is crowded out by big combinations, it means lower prices, better service, more industrial happiness for a greater number. Always somebody must be sacrificed. The industrial machine, made bigger and operated on a larger plan, will furnish more comforts for more people.

The president strikes the right note when he urges that the radio be used more, and more in public service and for good purposes. He finds it holds great promise of reaching in to the dark places of the earth. We think too much about more entertainment and not enough about the possibilities of broad, human service that lie in our amazing inventions.

Always much talk about the prevention of war. War might be prevented easily enough if the money kings who finance it, in all countries, would keep the safe locked while diplomats wrangle. Without big and easy borrowing there can be no war. It is up to the money lenders.

Dinner Stories.

Overheard in a photographic studio:
"Have I the pleasant expression you require?""Perfectly, sir."
"Then shoot quick; it hurts my face."

A tourist from the East had stopped to change tires in a desolate region of the Far West.

"I suppose," he remarked to a native on-looker, "that even in these isolated parts the bare necessities of life have risen tremendously in price."

"Yes, right, stranger," replied the native, gloomily, "an' it ain't worth drinkin' when ye get it."

It was at the theater. The orchestra had just been seated; then, as customary, the director came in. Immediately, the stillness was broken by the sound of a small girl's voice—"Mamma, that man is late again."

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, Oct. 27.—Society has a dozen or so men who are known as "bleachers," and where the name comes from no one seems to know. A "bleacher" is an easy-going fellow with plenty of money, who acts as a sort of buffer between a lady and scandal.

While a divorce is on the fire he will appear with her in public. He is the pal sort, generally friendly with her husband and one whose presence never causes lifting of eyelids. He is immune from gossip even if he appears in a cafe with the most talked-about show girl in town.

The "bleacher" is an adroit conversationalist. He can keep people amused. He is the sort whose Oxford the sisters never show and every hair in his head is always in perfect place. He does not, however, at the popular idea of a fop.

He goes in for the country gentleman stuff, riding to hounds and such. He plays tennis and swims well and has a shooting box in the Maine woods. His courtliness is of another and less hurried generation. He will even air the poodle and go shopping to match ribbons with her.

He can order a divine dinner from pot-pouris and knows vintage wines by their bouquet. As a rule he is a well-preserved man of about fifty. In no way is he looked upon as a polite moocher or gigolo. He has money to entertain extravagantly and does.

In the winter he is found on the Palm Beach sands, and may lunch at Whitehall with the chaste of Dianas and squire a hotsy-totsy queen to Bradley's at night and back her for the highest stakes. Women gravitate to him naturally although he is in no sense regarded as a lady-killer. He's comfortable.

Indeed, the "bleacher" is just one of those inconspicuous humans so peculiar to New York. Some say his appellation comes from the idea of sitting in the social bleachers—viewing activities with high enthusiasm but never getting close enough to be scorched.

Fun is fun, but a speakeasy in Forty-sixth street is tired of foolishness. A wall sign reads: "Revenue agents are welcome, but they must behave."

Broccoli is a vegetable which is now listed on the menu of every smart cafe in town. It is cooked in as many ways as potatoes. It is raised extensively on Long Island and in Florida and California.

The most consistent patrons of the gallery boxes at the Metropolitan opera are Italian barbers and Greek shoe-shiners. At the home of Metropolitan star recently two gentlemen, a little ill at ease in hat-fitting suits, entertained especially selected guests—one at the piano and another with vocal selections. The next day a guest was sitting in her bed-room in the east Fifth waiting for a building operation across the street. She saw something familiar about two bod carriers and finally they gazed at her and smiled in recognition. They were the entertainers of the night before.

Love for good music is associated with a cultural background and yet an upper hostler, born in this country, at Upper Fifth avenue once known as Shantytown, saves an evening to attend the opera and the symphony concerts in Carnegie hall.

AJ Tolson, best-known as a "Mammy" song singer, incidentally, is a steady patron of the opera when time permits. Hundreds of chorus girls are also opera enthusiasts. They have entered the chorus at the state first, but instead of their goal—grand opera. Indeed almost every one who has a passably good singing voice builds air castles of playing romantic roles in opera although few will admit it.

Five civil court cases stand in the Times Square district have closed in the past year. Gastronomic experts say it is not because the dish is no wall-cooked, but climatic conditions do not create an appetite for it.—Copyright, 1927.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

THEODORE E. BURTON.

Theodore, Elijah Burton was born at Jefferson, Ohio, December 30, 1851. He was admitted to the Ohio bar in 1875, practicing at Cleveland. Burton served in the fifty-first congress, the fifty-fourth to sixtieth congresses, and was elected to the sixty-first, but resigned upon his election to the United States senate for the term 1909 to 1915. He returned to the lower house in 1921. He has been a member of the Interparliamentary union, and as such participated in meetings at St. Louis, London, Paris, The Hague, Vienna, Copenhagen and Bern.

Congressman Burton roundly scores the Old world tariffs. He says:

"Do you realize the vast extent of trade restrictions since the late war? Up to the year 1925, fifty-two nations had adopted laws or regulations increasing tariffs, to which were added prohibitions on exportation and restrictions upon transit. The reasons given were the upbuilding of domestic industries, increased revenue, and restriction upon luxury. This situation is very much accentuated by the new boundaries and the new nations created by the treaty of Versailles and other treaties, thus a long-established trade which had followed certain lines for many, many years was seriously dislocated."

The statesman, Metternich, made a statement about the year 1848, which is illustrative of the situation. He said that if political considerations had not created Austria-Hungary, economic conditions would have made it necessary. That is illustrated in the whole of Europe. In one place there is the raw material, in another place the manufactured goods; here a forest, there the mines—all supplementing each other and demanding free intercourse.

"Should protective tariffs be revised? I do not wish to say so positively, but if Europe criticizes our tariff, if Europe asks for a lower rate of duties in the United States, let Europe set the example by lowering her tariffs, which have been so greatly increased since the late war. Whether we might follow that example or not I can not say, but it would be the most potent argument for lower rates of duties in the United States."

"Trade leads to better relations and to peace. Let us hope that there will be no insuperable barriers across which there will be military incursions, as there have been over the Rhine and elsewhere, for twenty centuries; that trade may move freely across and along that great river; and that the restrictions which have been created may be gradually diminished."

Today's Events.

Thursday, October 27, 1927.

Today is being observed as "Navy" day throughout the United States and its possessions.

Centenary of the birth of Albert Fink, the engineer who built the great bridge over the Ohio at Louisville.

Greetings to James J. Davis, secretary of labor in the Coolidge cabinet, on his fifty-fourth birthday anniversary.

If Theodore Roosevelt, former president of the United States, were living today he would have entered upon his seventieth birthday. The 1927 Roosevelt medals for distinguished service will be presented to General John J. Pershing, Herbert Hoover and John Bassett Moore at a banquet to be given tonight at the Roosevelt birthplace in New York City.

HIGH TEST—LOW TEST

What Does It All Mean?

When you ask for "High Test" Gasoline, what do you expect to get?

THIS question has been asked of hundreds of motorists and the answers received would indicate that in asking for "high test" gasoline most people expect to get high quality—high in those qualities which make for all 'round better motor performance. But today the label "high test" does not necessarily mean high quality. And here is the joker!

"High Test" means only High Gravity—but the gravity of Gasoline has no bearing on those qualities essential to a superior motor fuel!

Gasoline of high gravity and which will start easily in winter can be made by mixing casing-head gasoline with a heavy liquid more like kerosene. These concoctions are often sold as "high test gas."

But such "high test" fuels are sadly lacking in the really important qualities of a motor fuel of high quality.

You want gasoline which will start easily in any weather, and which also will give quick pick-up, giant power, economical mileage—which will burn cleanly without leaving carbon or unburned liquid to dilute your crank-case oil. In brief, you want a gasoline of high quality.

The Pure Oil Company was a pioneer in refining gasolines of high quality. It does not market "high test" or "low test" gasolines. It refines and sells only high quality products. And the leadership of DETONOX—the gasoline of supreme performance—has never been challenged successfully.

DETONOX is High Quality—Better 7 Ways

{ Of course DETONOX starts instantly in any weather —and there are six other points of superiority, too }

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise, often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overweightness, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat. If you are over stout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

LOOSE LEAF SYSTEM IS BEING INSTALLED

New Plan of Docketing Cases for Trial in Local Court Adopted

A loose leaf system of docketing cases for trial in the court of common pleas is being installed by Harry E. Koons, clerk of courts, to replace the old cover plan which has been in use for many years.

The change is being made with approval of Judge Schofield, who stated that it would be a valuable help in handling business of the court. The new plan will be less expensive in addition to resulting in increased efficiency, court officials say.

Cases will be recorded in alphabetical order, which will be much more convenient than the old plan of recording them numerically. A complete record will be provided for each case from the time of its filing to the final disposition.

When proceedings in any action are completed, the page showing the record will be removed from the current docket and placed in a permanent transfer record.

In the past it has been necessary to compile a new docket at the beginning of each term of court. This expense will be eliminated under the new system, which will provide a trial docket kept up to date at all times.

RARE BIRD IS HELD CAPTIVE

American Bittern To Gain Release When Broken Wing Is Healed

Mr. Glead, Oct. 27.—An American Bittern taken last Sunday by O. H. McKeever, local postal clerk, between Mr. Glead and Chesterville, is now in the possession of Miss Alta Smith, who reported last night that her guest specimen is apparently improving although it nearly refuses to take food voluntarily. She stated that she intended to release the bird when it proved its ability to fly. When found, the bird had a wounded wing which prevented its flight.

When it was brought to the home of Mr. McKeever, Sunday night, the bird escaped twice but was recaptured easily, due to its broken wing. Knowing that Miss Alta Smith, daughter of Rev. J. C. Smith of the M. E. Church, was very much interested in birds and their habits, he delivered the bird to her. As she reached to take it from Mr. McKeever, it struck violently at her eyes, tearing her spectacles from her face. It has attacked any curious admirers that come near.

Has Sword-Like Beak

The bird is of a brownish color, about two feet high, and has a wing spread of three feet, an unusual wing spread for a bird of so slight a body. The bird has a neck, which is able to stretch to the length of 12 inches when striking. Added to this is a beak approximately four inches long, sword shaped. Two small snake eyes set close to the base of the beak. Much of the bird's height is in the legs, which are nearly 10 inches.

The bird nested itself in some nearby tall grass at the Smith home, being retained by a cord around a leg. It holds its beak upwards constantly at a 45 degree angle, although sometimes gazing at objects much lower. Its extremely bad temper is very apparent in its actions and in its harsh cry. It is constantly on the alert when anyone is near.

Miss Smith stated that it was rather unusual that this type of bird, which is of the heron family, would be found in this section, as its habitat is usually near large bodies of water. She thinks the bird was struck by shot while migrating. She is now awaiting a small leg band from the Biological Survey at Washington, D. C., which will identify it to any other captives.

REAR END OF MARION MAN DIES IN SOUTH

Sherman Dixon, 540 Park-st., Learns of Death at Portsmouth, Va.

Sherman Dixon, 540 Park-st., junior at the Court House, received word yesterday of the death Tuesday in Portsmouth, Va., of his sister, Mrs. Sarah Jane Little. Death came on the night of Mrs. Little's seventy-second birthday anniversary. Cause of death was not learned here.

No funeral arrangements have been received by Mr. Dixon although it is believed the body will be brought here and taken to LaGrange for burial.

Mrs. Little was born in LaGrange, the daughter of James Monroe and Elizabeth Dixon. She is survived by a son, S. K. Little, U. S. Waits 15 Years To Eat Fried Onions

"For 15 years I suffered from a bad case of indigestion. This poisonous matter may have been in my stomach for 15 years. I suffered from gas, headache, sleeplessness and many other symptoms. A treatment of Adierka, the best of the best, relieved me of all my troubles. I feel like a new man. I am eating fried onions and other gas-expelling and detergent elements."

What Doctors Say

Dr. H. Louis Shoup, New York, states: "Adierka, in addition to its indigestion clearing action, tends to check the growth of intestinal bacteria."

Dr. A. J. Lancaster, a physician of over a quarter century's experience, says: "In the treatment of gastrointestinal disorders, Adierka has no equal."

J. E. Pickett, writes: "After using Adierka, I feel better than for 20 years. Badly acquired ailments were eliminated from my system."

No matter what you have tried for the bowels and stomach, Adierka will surprise you.

Johnny Risko Loses Chance at Sharkey In Heeney Battle

Australian Blacksmith Outpoints Cleveland Baker in Ten-Round Fight; Scuffle Opened Detroit's New Fight Arena; Gate Worth $75,000

DETROIT, Oct. 27.—A blacksmith from New Zealand and a baker from Cleveland battled in the new fight arena, the Olympia, to boxing tonight and the blacksmith forced as a victory as the new heavyweight season is likely to see.

The grand opening of the fight arena, the largest in the midwest and smaller Madison Square Garden, in the new arena, was a glittering affair for Tom Heeney and the promoter who represented the New Zealand boxer and Johnny Risko, to a crowd of 17,000 that packed the splendid arena to capacity.

Has Been Underestimated

Heeney, a heavyweights who has been recently underestimated since his arrival here last January had to come from behind to have his hand raised as referee Slim McLelland and he deserved the verdict.

Risko gave him a whole of a fight in six rounds and was in front going into the seventh when he blew up as a result of Heeney's steady body punching in the early rounds. Thereafter Heeney was wild with his far flung punches and a mark for Heeney's precise short punches.

Except for short rallies in which he pulled Heeney along the ropes, Risko was badly outpointed in the last round and had nothing left for the fourth when a strong finish might have made it a close decision.

As it was scored Heeney took the third, fourth and the last four rounds. The fight drew a capacity house and many were turned away. The attendance was approximately 17,000, and the gate receipts about $75,000. A new record for Detroit.

Risko Was Favorite

Risko was 6 to 5 favorite going into the ring and for six rounds looked like a winner although Heeney kept plugging along planting his shots to the body with excellent timing and precision. He couldn't dent Risko's concrete jaw. But the cumulative effect of the body having caused Johnny to lose his grip shortly after they swung into the last half.

Heeney isn't supposed to have a great left hand but it was his last weapon last night. Tom belted Risko's stomach and ribs with it until they were red and sore. He supplemented his left hook to the body with left uppercuts and straight rights to the ribs and chin.

Heeney thus earned his shot at Jack Sharkey on Nov. 18. Few good fighters have taken the measure of the Cleveland baker and few care to try. Heeney's showing last night enabled him to plenty of respect from Sharkey. Tom can catch as well as throw.

Risko slammed some terrific lefts to Tom's jaw last night without budging the stocky Aussie. In the sixth round Johnny landed his best blow of the fight on Tom's chest. Heeney took it with a smile and kept advancing. Risko seemed to lose heart then.

In the semi-final Archie Hall, Brooklyn bantam repeated his Chicago decision over Johnny Vaca, conqueror of Fidel La Barba. He cut Vaca up badly and flattened him in the second round for a count of 9.

Puts Detroit on Map

Detroit will be a big spot on the boxing map from now on judging from last night's turnout. The ring-side sections were occupied by the best citizens, men high up in the business, professional and political life of this great industrial center.

The Olympia was financed and built by the Detroit Hockey Club but will be used for all sorts of professional and amateur sports. It is planned to stage boxing shows every week.

George Levine the old Saginaw Kid, a great lightweight champion of more than thirty years ago, was spotted in the crowd by announcer Joe Humphreys and called up to the ring for an introduction. The Kid is bald and wearing his sixties and has lived for many years in retirement.

These two games should develop into about the best of the season unless there is another string of unexpected reversals of form. New York University has great potential strength. Only the surface has been tapped in its preliminary games and its veteran backfield composed of Briante, Connor, Scott and Strong is about as versatile and flashy a quartet as any that has played since Notre Dame's Four Horsemen.

What N. Y. U. did last season, when it swept everything before it until the final game with Nebraska is recent history and it began again this year when it left off in 1925. Incidentally the Nebraska-N. Y. U. clash on Thanksgiving Day at Lincoln will see the New York eleven keyed up for swift revenge.

NEW HEAVY

Pierre Charles, Helgion Champ, to Seek Honors in America

New York, Oct. 27.—Gus Wilson, optimistic dealer in fight products, perhaps better known as Jack Dempsey's trainer today announced that he was preparing to let loose on America's heavyweight division, one Pierre Charles, heavyweight champion of Belgium. Charles is due in this country Dec. 20 and will plunge immediately into the situation. Wilson said, Jack Sharkey, Johnny Risko or Jack Delaney will be sought for his debut, the trainer added.
